Kissinger threatens to resign over wiretaps

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today "I will resign" unless the controversy in Washington over his role in national security wiretapping is cleared up.

"I do not believe it is possible to conduct the foreign policy of the United States under these circumstances," he told a special news conference here. "If it is not cleared up I will resign."

His voice quavered at times and his eyes glistened with tears.

He called on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to reopen its case on the alleged wiretaps and said if necessary he would break off his trip to the Middle East with President Nixon to return to Washington to testify.

Kissinger was referring to charges stemming from various reports that he had ordered wiretaps on administration officials who had access to national security documents that were leaked to the press in the United States.

In Washington, the Foreign Relations Committee promptly voted unanimously to review Kissinger's previous testimony on the wiretaps. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, made that announcement and said he fully supports the secretary and does not believe he should resign.

Asked if he considered himself an innocent bystander in the controversy, Kissinger replied that on a number of occasions he had called President Nixon's attention to "very significant security leaks."

He added: This then led the President ... to institute a program of wiretaps. I did not myself propose the program....I undoubtedly contributed by my description of the security programs....I did not recommend the program myself."

Kissinger said that in 1969 he was ordered to give the names of subordinates who had access to material which had been leaked or could have been suspected of leaking it.

He heatedly denied receiving scores of wiretap logs, maintaining that he saw only 1½-page summary reports that reached him infrequently.

Kissinger said he had informed President Nixon that he would hold the news conference here en route to the Middle East with the presidential party. But Kissinger added that he did not tell Nixon what he intended to say or that he would make the threat to resign.

Kissinger is returning to the Middle East where earlier this month, working as a mediator, he helped bring about the military disengagement pact between Israel and Syria. This paved the way for talks on an over-all Middle East peace settlement in Geneva.

Several hours after Kissinger's news conference, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, issue a statement saying President Nixon "recognizes Secretary Kissinger's desire to defend his honor against false charges and the secretary's feelings that he be able to carry out his responsibilities unencumbered by the diversions of the kind of anonymous attack that has so poisoned our national dialogue."

At his news conference, Kissinger was referring to allegations stemming from reports that he had ordered wiretaps on administration officials who had access to national security documents that were leaked to the press.

In his confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 15-17, Kissinger denied ordering the taps.

The great escape

These puppies at the Sedalia Animal Shelter wanted to escape from their captivity more than anything Tuesday morning. In the top photo, one puppy makes his break while in the bottom photo, a group of escapees moves for freedom. Everett Blackmore, assistant poundmaster, said that the dog pens were built too far from the ground and leave enough room for small dogs to squeeze through. He said he hopes to soon get some smaller pens at the shelter for puppies. However he said he wished the pens weren't necessary at all. "If people would take care of their dogs there wouldn't be so many puppies," he said. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Goes to Egypt Wednesday

Nixon, Kreisky discuss trip

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — President Nixon met more than 1½ hours today with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to discuss the American chief executive's trips to the Middle East and Moscow.

Nixon leaves this medieval city Wednesday for Egypt on the first stop of a five-nation Middle East tour.

The talks also touched on European matters, presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said, particularly the European security conference that includes Russia and other eastern European nations.

Ziegler raised the possibility that Nixon will hold a summit meeting with Western European leaders before he gets to Moscow.

A final determination probably will depend on whether a new declaration of principles for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is initialed by NATO foreign ministers in Canada later this month.

Ziegler also defended Nixon against criticism by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said that the President "is screwing it up," in reference to the Middle East achievements by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"That view is not shared by the majority of the Senate," Ziegler said, and not "by the majority of the American people, in my view."

Jackson told a labor convention Monday in Atlantic City, N.J., that he thought Kissinger had brought some stability to the Middle East and he fears the President's trip might bungle the cease-fire agreements.

Nixon appeared to be counting on medieval Salzburg to be something of a good luck talisman for his trip to the Middle East.

Standing bareheaded in a steady rain, Nixon on his arrival Monday night recalled his stopover in the city en route to Moscow in 1972 and said that journey "not only created a new ... direction as far as the Soviet Union and the United States (were concerned) ... but contributed to peace for all nations of the world."

Expressing a hope for similar success on his trip to four Arab nations and Israel, the President added: "Every nation in the world has a stake in this journey."

Nixon had told a farewell crowd at the White House: "We realize that one trip is not going to solve differences that are very deep, which go back many years and in some cases centuries. But we also realize that a beginning has to be made ...

Nixon was stopping for 36 hours in Salzburg to adjust to the change in time before flying on to Cairo Wednesday morning. The only item on his schedule today was a two-hour meeting with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, but his aides insisted that the President was not vacationing.

"No relaxation at all," said chief of staff Alexander M. Haig, Jr., "it will be a period of very intensive work."

Spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler said the President spent nearly all the 8½-hour flight from Washington preparing for the talks he will have with the leaders of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Israel and Jordan.

Nixon talked at length with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger about the trip and how to follow up the successes Kissinger achieved in negotiating disengagement agreements between Israel and Syria and Egypt.

Nixon's aides refused to discuss current developments in the Watergate scandal.

Housing authority votes study of increased elderly needs here

By BOB SHEUE
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Sedalia Housing Authority Monday night voted to order the Rev. Marvin Albright, Housing Authority director, to make a study of the needs for more low income housing for the elderly in Sedalia in preparation for possibly asking the City Council for approval of applying for such housing with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mr. Albright said he would consult census figures and other data to determine how acute the need for more elderly housing is in Sedalia.

"Right now we have a waiting list of about 10 for elderly housing," Mr. Albright said, "and we have about 15 or 20 elderly persons living in the Anthony Buckner units." The housing for elderly units are located at 24th and Marvin with the Buckner complex is located at Brown and Saline.

Under Section 23 of the Housing Assistance Payments Program (HAP), for which funds are currently available, new units would have to be constructed or present structures renovated to satisfy fairly strict building standards recently adopted by HUD in connection with the HAP program.

Mr. Albright explained that fair market rent would be charged occupants. Depending on their income, occupants would pay a certain amount while HUD would subsidize the rest of the rent payment, through the local housing authority, to meet fair market rental values.

Under HAP, building owners would be responsible for management and maintenance of the units while the Housing Authority would determine tenant eligibility, income limits, unit inspection, authorize evictions, and provide guidance and advice for families seeking housing.

The Housing Authority would also enter into HAP contracts with owners rather than leases under which the Authority would sublease to eligible families.

Mr. Albright said one advantage of the HAP program is that it would allow quick access to additional housing for the elderly.

The Housing Authority also voted to prepare application

Erlichman's trial postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today postponed John D. Erhlichman's trial on break-in, conspiracy and perjury charges because President Nixon has refused full access to Ehrlichman's White House files.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said he would issue an order, probably Wednesday, to enforce the subpoena Ehrlichman served on the White House for the files.

The trial of Ehrlichman's three co-defendants will begin Monday as scheduled, Gesell said.

"The President flatly refuses to make documents available to the court in camera and thus makes it impossible for the court to properly perform its duty," Gesell said.

"In view of this resistance to a lawful trial subpoena the court feels it necessary to sever Mr. Ehrlichman from the remaining defendants and continue his trial at a later date."

William S. Merrill, an assistant special prosecutor said it was possible that the former domestic counsel's trial might not take place until next year.

Ehrlichman, in court during the brief proceeding, was asked by reporters if his insistence on seeing all his White House notes for a 2¼-year period was a tactic to get him off. Ehrlichman replied, "I don't consider it a tactic. This is a matter for a fair trial."

There had been public speculation that President Nixon's imposition of conditions under which the material would be yielded was a legal maneuver to allow Ehrlichman to go free.

But Ehrlichman said "there is no substance to that." He said he had not talked with President Nixon since last December.

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Gesell on Monday that the President still reserved the final say over what materials from Ehrlichman's own files the former domestic aide could use.

Budget hearings for city begin

By STEPHEN A. SEEWOESTER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Fire Chief Willis Jabas and Police Chief William Miller presented their budgets for the new fiscal year Monday to the City Council and requested money to realign supervisory staffs.

The council also heard requests from the Streets and Alleys, Sanitation, Sewer and Public Buildings and Grounds departments. None of the requests were specifically accepted or rejected by the council.

Chief Jabas requested $7,080 above money needed for salaries, benefits, etc. to institute a proposed new supervisory alignment.

Presently, the fire department has two assistant chiefs, who, along with Jabas, are responsible for the operation of the three stations in Sedalia on three eight-hour shifts.

The proposal is for another assistant chief to be designated along with additional captains. Jabas wants one captain on duty at all times at each station.

This plan would eliminate the need for lieutenants who sometimes double as drivers for the department. There are presently nine drivers and that would be increased to 12 if Jabas' proposal is accepted by the council.

Fourth Ward Councilman Bob Eidson agreed with the chief's plan and said, "This plan would give us better coverage of our present facilities, including the proposed new station. We would have three complete administrative facilities."

Eidson also said the extra money would allow firemen substituting at higher level jobs to get paid for their extra responsibility.

Miller, who requested a total of $468,479.24, told the council of his proposal to assign three new corporal positions to man the police desk in the Municipal Building when there is only one sergeant on duty.

Although explaining his request would not enlarge the current size of the existing police force, Miller said the change would require a $1,000 increase in the proposed overall salary schedule to account for pay increased for the current patrolmen who would be elevated to the new rank.

"I want to keep a sergeant in the field at all times, and leave a corporal on duty when we have only one sergeant on duty," Miller said.

Miller's total budget request is $64,171 more than last year's. Of this total increase, Miller told The Democrat-Capital Tuesday, $50,441 would go for salary increases throughout the department, and increased insurance and social security benefits. A secondary portion of the total proposed increase, $12,480, Miller said, is reflected in the $57,410 alloted for operating expenses. Increases in this department, Miller said,

Friends find body of coach in Osage River

(Democrat-Capital Service)

OSCEOLA, Mo. — The body of Abe Clark, 30, high school football and wrestling coach at Clinton, Mo., was found at 12:40 p.m. Monday in the Osage River, near Warsaw, about 27 miles east of here.

St. Clair County sheriff Shirley Collins said Clark's body was found by two of his Clinton friends who had volunteered to help the sheriff's department and Missouri Boat Patrol search for the body.

Collins said crews had abandoned dragging the river Monday, and that the body was found after it had floated to the surface.

Clark and five other men were thrown into the Osage River about 4:30 a.m. Friday after their log raft struck the pier of a new bridge under construction on St. Clair County Route Z. The other men escaped injury.

Clark was on one of three rafts participating in a Jaycee-sponsored race down the river when thunderstorms dumped about three inches of rain onto the area.

Houstonia man gets jail term on felony charge

William Dale Bentley, 47, Route 2, Houstonia, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail Tuesday after he pleaded guilty in Pettis County Circuit Court to a felony charge of driving while intoxicated, third offense.

Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming said Bentley was ordered to serve his sentence on weekends, at 2½ days of credit for each weekend in jail.

Bentley was arrested Jan. 12 by the Highway Patrol on Highway 65 near Routes H and HH. He allegedly was convicted of drunken driving charges within the last 2½ years in both Platte and Buchanan Counties.

In other court action Monday, Norman Fredericks, 24, Montreal, Mo., was granted a change of venue to Cooper County Circuit Court in Boonville. Fredericks is charged with sale of marijuana.

Fredericks contended he could not receive a fair trial in Pettis County due to the bias and prejudice of the residents of the county.

Fredericks was arrested in January this year on charges that he sold marijuana on April 23, 1973, to Steve Vanderfeltz, an undercover agent working for the Sedalia police department.

Police arrest Sedalia man on Kansas charge

Sedalia police arrested Terry Fletcher, 3134 West 10th, early Tuesday morning on a warrant from Olathe, Kansas.

Fletcher was picked up by police after a check was made on his license plates. The warrant was issued for Fletcher in April and concerns an alleged fraudulent check incident.

Fletcher, 29, was transferred to the Pettis County jail and remained there early Tuesday afternoon pending extradition proceedings in Magistrate Court.

In other police news, Beverly Mills, Heritage Village Trailer Court, reported to police that $436 in jewelry and a radio were stolen from her mobile home sometime Sunday. Police reported that entry to the home was gained by cutting a screen door. No suspects have been arrested in connection with the incident.

Katie Griffin, 93, 1008 East Broadway, reported that $192 in currency was taken from her home sometime over the weekend.

A lion statue and a patio light were taken early Tuesday morning from the home of Steven Boots, 801 Ruth Ann. Police later found the statue but the light was still missing Tuesday afternoon. Value of the light was set at $50.

Aspiring artists seek city mural

"Quite a few" applications have been received from persons aspiring to paint a mural on the walls of the Municipal Building, it was reported by Barbara Cooney, a member of the Municipal Building art commission.

Mrs. Ellen Quigg, chairman of the commission, was not available Tuesday to provide the exact number of applicants. The deadline for applying was Tuesday.

All applicants for the job have submitted sample art works to be considered by the commission, it was reported. The council will further study the applications at its next meeting June 20, Mrs. Cooney indicated.

Damage petition seeks $85,500 for alleged injuries

A six-count, $85,500 damage suit was filed Monday in Pettis County Circuit Court against a Sedalia man.

Clyde Emory Ferguson, 422 East 11th, was named the defendant in the suit filed by five Kansas City residents. They are Mae Frances Murff, William E. Calhoun Jr., Mary Calhoun, and the Calhouns' two children, Frances Yvette Calhoun, 10, and George T. Calhoun, 13.

The petition alleges the five plaintiffs were injured when the car they were riding in collided with a vehicle driven by Ferguson on Feb. 25, 1973, on Highway 50 about a mile west of Highway 65.

For alleged injuries, Mary Calhoun is seeking $50,000; William E. Calhoun Jr., $5,000; George Calhoun, $10,000; Frances Yvette Calhoun, $5,000; and Mae Frances Murff, $5,000.

William E. Calhoun Jr. also is seeking $10,000 for alleged injuries his wife sustained and $500 for damage to his vehicle.

Volunteer fire protection session on Wednesday night

Raymond Kameyer, fire chief of the volunteer fire department in Concordia, will be the featured speaker at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the County Court judges' room at the Pettis County Courthouse.

The meeting is the second public session the County Court has called to discuss ways to improve fire protection for rural Pettis County. The first meeting was held May 15.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Kameyer will speak on the "successful operations" of volunteer fire departments in Concordia and Lafayette County.

Expected to attend the meeting will be members of Pettis County Civil Defense and city officials and volunteer firemen from Smithton, LaMonte, Green Ridge, Hughesville and Houstonia.

papers to HUD for entering into a retirement program for participating Housing Authority employes. There are four employes who would qualify for the program, which was explained to the authority by Pat Ferris, St. Louis, a representative of Southwestern Life Insurance Co., Dallas. Under the program, a participating employe would apportion up to 5½ per cent of his salary, which could be matched or exceeded by two per cent by the employer, in this case the authority. Mr. Albright explained to the authority that HUD would not hesitate to approve the insurance program, providing the authority could prove solvency and assure the federal agency the money for authority participation was available. He added that a higher tenant level might be required to assure authority participation in the program.

Several tenants appeared before the authority and discussed the proper channels to follow in obtaining and placing playground facilities for youngsters in the Buckner complex. Authority president E. Glenn Lewis suggested the tenants work with Roscoe Righter, city recreation director, and Mr. Albright in arranging a functional playground.

The tenants also asked for the continued use of one vacant apartment for their tenant council meetings. The request was approved.

Mr. Albright read the occupancy report, which indicated a total of 145 units were occupied, or two less than last month. Mr. Albright stressed that the reason many of the eight families of individuals left the projects was that they were able to find more permanent or improved housing. The authority agreed that seeing former tenants achieve a better standard of living was one of the positive aspects of running such a housing program.

City Counselor Robert Fritz drew up a lease between the Khoury League and the authority for the use of the authority's land adjacent to the Centennial Park baseball diamonds for parking space, it was reported.

Mr. Albright was also instructed to look into the local availability of a suitable mid-sized tractor which would be used as a general ground maintenance machine for mowing. The authority has about $4,000 in city funds appropriated to them by the City Council to spend for project maintenance or operation.

The authority also voted to contract with one tenant, on a trial basis, for cleaning of vacant apartments, and an appropriate payment rate was established according to apartment size.

Budget

have been necessitated by the rising costs of uniforms, gasoline and automobile leasing rates.

A final increase of $1,250, over last year's comparative figure of $8,750, has been requested to purchase new equipment, Miller said.

Miller also reminded the council that persons who are sentenced to jail are still being transferred to the county jail at a cost of $5 per day to the city.

Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin questioned this practice as being inconvenient and dangerous. The plan was used before the city moved into its new facilities.

In addition to the administrative changes, Fire Chief Jabas asked the council to consider in its budget this year the need for a new aerial pumper. "The present pumper is six years old, and it will probably take two years to get a new one once we order it," Jabas said.

A new aerial pumper would cost between $100,000 and $125,000 at present rates, Jabas said. The council decided to look into this cost as possibly part of this year's budget.

According to Eidson, the city would have to put approximately 25 per cent down on the new truck to be assured the price would remain what it is contracted for.

Jabas also requested new hose to replace some of the department's present hose, which is more than 20 years old.

The budget requests for the sanitation, sewer, streets and alleys, and public buildings and grounds departments were also reviewed.

The council limited discussion on these proposals because "each of the proposed improvements will have to be analyzed when we know how much money we have to allocate," Franklin said.

Franklin asked Vernon Ditton, head of the street and alley department, why his proposed improvements did not include anything in the Third Ward. Ditton had no comment, but Franklin indicated he would pursue this question at a later date.

"I think all the proposed projects are probably needed, but we will have to evaluate them one by one," Franklin said.

All of the departments expressed a need for additional funds to operate their motor vehicles. The council was made aware of this problem at its meetings last Monday night when Dan Robinson of Bryant Motors asked for a 1.05 cent per mile raise on leased police cars.

The council will hear additional requests from the airport, cemetery, park, library, economic development and parking departments boards at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the Municipal Building.

Ann Landers

Mother preoccupied with germy 'touchers'

Dear Ann Landers: We have a four-month-old baby who is very cute. She has a darling personality, is very friendly and always smiling.

The problem isn't the baby's, it's mine. I hate it when people try to touch her. Especially if they appear to have a cold. Sometimes they have just coughed into their hands and then they want to put their germy fingers on my child's face. It drives me wild.

Salespeople who handle dirty money all day are the worst offenders. How do they know who was the last one to touch that money? He or she might have had some terrible disease. Please print this letter so the stupid "touchers" can see it. My relatives all know how I feel. It's the strangers I need to reach. — Hands Off

Dear Off: Your preoccupation with germs goes beyond a mother's natural concern. It's sick. Babies build up an immunity to a variety of diseases by normal exposure. The child who is raised under a glass bell will have very little resistance. Please discuss this with your pediatrician and hopefully he can remove this klinker from your thinker.

Dear Ann Landers: If you print this letter I will love you to my dying day.

The question arises: To whom shall we send announcements? The answer is simple. If the people were not close enough so that you were moved to send them a sympathy card or drop by the house when they lost a loved one, they are not close enough to be sent a graduation or wedding announcement, or an invitation to a shower, which of course means "bring a gift."

Smuggling of heroin from Mexico reported on upswing

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years of decline, heroin traffic into the United States is reported on the upswing, with Mexico replacing Europe as the primary source and conduit for the narcotic.

Federal drug enforcement officials say the heroin is refined from poppy plants grown in western Mexico, then shipped into the U.S.

At the same time, there is growing trade in marijuana from long-established sources in Mexico, leading to an intensified antismuggling campaign along the 1,400-mile border.

But some officials acknowledge that U.S. government efforts to cope with the illicit activity have been partially impeded by bureaucratic wrangling among agencies with jurisdiction over certain aspects of narcotics control.

The Customs Service, which has concentrated its own border drug interdiction efforts chiefly against the Mexican marijuana trade, contends that heroin traffic from there is negligible. Although heroin remains priority No. 1 because of the danger it poses, customs officials said synthetic drugs are their biggest worry.

However, the Drug Enforcement Administration, a year-old Justice Department agency with which Customs has clashed frequently over enforcement policy, says Mexico has become the source of as much as 50 per cent of the heroin reaching the United States.

During the peak years of heroin traffic, 1969-72, up to 80 per cent of the narcotic reaching U.S. shores came from or through Europe. Only about 15 per cent from Mexico.

Mexican heroin is easily identified by its brown color; the more refined product from European laboratories is white. But officials say there is no difference in the potency.

John R. Bartels Jr., director of the drug agency, said brown heroin, once confined mostly to the West Coast, recently has been turning up in eastern cities—one indicator used to determine source.

He says he is skeptical of most drug statistics reported by government agencies and admits he is "not happy" even with the figures compiled by his own. The heroin situation is assessed by such indicators as seizures, quality of the drug, street prices and the number of deaths from overdose.

The Customs Service, deprived of some of its functions when the drug agency was created in President Nixon's general overhaul of drug enforcement system a year ago, has doubled the number of individual marijuana seizures from Mexico in the past 10 months. Agents seized more than 85 tons of marijuana between October and March and 25 tons in the March-April period alone when the Mexican harvest was in full swing, official reports show.

In that time, Customs agents seized 8.33 pounds of heroin at all U.S. borders; 5.83 pounds came from Mexico.

The shift to Mexico as a major heroin source is due in part to the success of federal authorities in breaking up established connections from Europe, the Middle East and Asia, officials say.

Bartels says that while the international heroin traffic always has been controlled by the Mafia, the Mexican connection only now is showing signs that "these guys are now starting to get organized," he said.

Virginia was named by Sir Walter Raleigh, who fitted out the expedition of 1584, in honor of Queen Elizabeth, the Virgin Queen of England.

You're Never Too Old To Hear Better

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5667 Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

See doctor now for passed blood

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing to you about my father-in-law. We have a very close relationship, and I love him very much. I am very worried. I fear he is doing himself more harm than good. For about a year now he has been urinating blood. He refuses to see a doctor and says he has seen many of his friends go to a doctor and only become worse. He is 64. Dr. Lamb, could you please tell me what it could be that he has and how serious it could be. What can I do for him? I would appreciate any helpful information you can give me.

Dear Reader — Get him to go to a doctor without fail. Anyone who is passing blood in the urine should be carefully examined for the possibility of cancer. Painless bleeding in the urine which starts suddenly sometimes means cancer of the kidney. I don't mean to frighten you, but your father-in-law must understand the significance of his problem.

Less serious problems can cause bleeding. They too require medical attention. I don't believe there is anything you can really do for him other than to do your absolute best to get him to a doctor for a careful examination.

I would like to take opportunity to encourage everyone who has this kind of a problem at any time to go immediately to a doctor for a complete medical examination. Time, in these situations, can sometimes save a person's life.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have what is know as a nonmalignant fibroid tumor of the uterus. This was confirmed by my doctor a year ago. He said very little about it, and this is why I feel compelled to ask questions. Is there a possibility that a tumor of this kind would hinder pregnancy? My husband and I have been hoping for children for two years, but have had no success in our efforts to have a child.

Can you explain what a fibroid is? And, can they cause bleeding?

Dear Reader — A fibroid, sometimes called leiomyomata, is usually a fairly smooth, round tumor in the body of the uterus made up of connective tissue or the fibers similar to those in scar tissue. This means it's fairly firm or fiberous. It is not cancer. Fibroids will enlarge in time in most women. Very small ones can be tolerated and some women have gotten pregnant in the presence of a fibroid tumor. The location and size has a lot to do with this, and it's possible for the presence of such a tumor to interfere with normal pregnancy.

Ocassionally these tumors are the cause for bleeding. However, no woman should assume this, and any woman who has unexplained uterine bleeding should immediately seek the attention of her doctor. An examination under these circumstances may detect an early malignancy and make it possible for a complete cure. Delay may mean disaster.

Fibroid tumors as they become larger may get big enough to cause distention of the lower abdomen and can even cause pressure on the bladder and bowels.

Whether or not a fibroid tumor should be removed depends a lot on the circumstances. If it's small, there is no bleeding and it doesn't seem to be enlarging or causing the patient any problem, the doctor may elect not to bother it. However, if it's producing symptoms by causing pressure on the bladder or by causing bleeding, he may elect to remove it. Similarly, he may decide to remove one if he thinks it could be interfering with the possibility of achieving a desired pregnancy. — (NEA)

The nicest thing about being in the hospital is getting out.

It's a nice feeling, getting out of the hospital. You're going back to the world, doing the things you want to do again. You're happy.

But even getting out has its drawbacks. Because in order to get out, you've got to get by the cashier. And that always concerns you a little, because you're never sure what the bill is going to be. You don't have to be concerned. Not with a Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans cover over one-third of this country's population. Why so popular? Because our members know that Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage has always been the best in health care protection. And always will be. Our members know, too, that they'll get the best return on their investment, and that we pay participating hospitals and doctors direct so they don't have to worry about it.

A Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership helps make getting out of the hospital a very happy occasion. Just like it's supposed to be.

Is foreign affairs record that good?

Foreign affairs is the one bright light amid the gloom surrounding the Nixon administration.

It is the one area the President can point to—as, not surprisingly, he has done again and again—and cite positive and lasting accomplishments: The ending of the Vietnam war, the bringing home of American prisoners, the improvement of relations with Russia and the puncturing of the Chinese bamboo curtain.

So well has the Nixon administration identified itself with innovation and achievement in foreign affairs that even Nixonphobes who urge the President's resignation or impeachment for other reasons generally give him high marks in this department.

Unfortunately, like many claims put forth by the White House, a closer examination reveals that President Nixon's record in the foreign field does not quite live up to its billings.

The most important of all the claims is that Richard Nixon ended the Vietnam war. To do so, however, took him four years and the expenditure of as many lives and as much treasure as in his predecessor's three years.

Actually, all that is ended in Vietnam is American combat troop involvement. The war goes on, and while Vietnam veterans are given shrift, American military aid to South Vietnam continues to the tune of more than $1 billion a year.

The Vietnam war is "over" only because we no longer pay any attention to it.

As for the breakthroughs in relations with Russia and China, the former were the beneficiaries of a bargain wheat deal in which American farmers lost tens of millions of dollars in potential earnings and whose adverse repercussions the American economy is still suffering from; and the latter have made it abundantly plain that it is they who will decide how far and how quickly relations with the United States will improve.

Rather than being like Commodore Perry forcing open the door of Japan, President Nixon was invited to China because the Chinese had decided that it was time to take out some insurance in the event of war with Russia. No matter who had been president in 1972, unless he was a real blunderer, he would have been credited with "bringing China back into the world community."

Merry-go-round

No in-depth probe of Nixon's finances

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — At least five separate federal investigations have been conducted into President Nixon's personal finances. Yet no government agent has had the audacity to make a check-by-check, deposit-by-deposit examination of the President's personal bank accounts.

Not even the House impeachment investigators, who are supposed to be doing a detailed study of the President's financial dealings, have requested access to the bank records.

Congressional sleuths and Internal Revenue agents have conducted exhaustive investigations of his financial transactions, including his acquisition of the San Clemente and Key Biscayne estates.

But apparently, the government gumshoes still hold the President too much in awe to subject him to the same kind of intensive scrutiny that other citizens have endured.

KREMLIN OBSTRUCTION: Secret intelligence reports indicate that the Kremlin was mightily upset over Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's success in negotiating a Syrian-Israeli truce.

Contrary to press accounts, the intelligence reports declare that Soviet Foreign Miniyter Andrei Gromyko was dispatched to Damascus not to aid in the neogitations but to obstruct them.

This coincides with a hardening of the Kremlin's attitude toward the United States. Soviet leaders have expressed their displeasure privately over the failure of Congress to ratify trade concessions. They have dropped dark remarks about the President's failure to make good his promises.

Perhaps the Soviets are merely bolstering their bargaining position on the eve of the Moscow summit meeting. But it is beginning to look as if the President will have to make substantial concessions to bring home an agreement, which he desperately needs to restore public confidence in his leadership.

BRASS RING: The front pages have been exploding with headlines about the villains in the drama of government. But there have been heroes, too, whose names have attracted less attention. Today we award the brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, to three of those heroes.

STANLEY SPORKIN stood tall among those caught in the spotlight of the Robert Vesco case. For a $200,000 cash contribution delivered in a black attache case, Vesco tried to stop the Securities and Exchange Commission from investigating his financial empire.

Two former cabinet officers, Attorney General John Mitchell and Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, were acquitted of bribery. But the testimony was clear that they tried to help Vesco.

The more political pressure that was brought on Sporkin, however, the harder he pressed the case against Vesco. Sporkin is known around the SEC as a man who hates corruption, who can't be pressured, who puts the public interest ahead of all else.

RICHARD SPRAGUE, an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia, wouldn't rest after the brutal murder of mine workers champion Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter, until the man who ordered it was convicted. In time, the dogged Sprague nailed former mine workers boss Tony Boyle for masterminding the murder.

Of more than 70 homicide cases Sprague has brought to trial, he has lost only one, which was reduced to a lesser charge. Yet Sprague has worked equally hard, when his cases have been weak, to prove the innocence of men he was supposed to prosecute. Associates describe Sprague as "a man with an absolute sense of public duty."

SEYMOUR GLANZER probably more than any single individual deserves credit for breaking the Watergate case. Those familiar with the work of the original Watergate prosecutors agree that Glanzer usually asked the sharpest questions.

The veteran trial lawyer John Wilson, in reviewing for the President the case against his clients H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, feared Glanzer the most. Wilson called him "a fire-eating prosecutor."

Yet surprisingly, Glanzer was also the loudest in upholding the rights of the accused. Associates say he agonizes over the frailties in the judicial system and always puts justice ahead of convictions.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We reported on March 7 that all but four of the 23 Watergate grand jurors wanted "to hold President Nixon accountable" for the Watergate cover-up. This secret, 19-to-0 vote, with the four absent, made headlines last week . . . Clinton Harris, a racing boat driver who named his boat the Miss Watergate, recently tested it on the murky waters of the Potomac. While he was streaking across the surface, the bottom suddenly, unaccountably fell out from underneath him. The boat went to the bottom . . . A recent public opinion poll, asking voters whom they selected in the 1972 presidential election, showed that Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., should have carried both California and Indiana. In the actual election, of course, he lost both states by wide margins.

'Impeaching' Congress a possibility

WASHINGTON — "Congressman Cheesedip, how do you feel about the Watergate affair?"

"I am shocked, appalled and horrified that such a thing could happen in this great land of ours."

Buchwald

"What is Congress doing to prevent future Watergates from taking place?"

"We are studying the matter very closely."

"Do you believe there is any possibility that the House will pass serious election-reform legislation this year?"

"I didn't understand that question."

"Congressman Cheesedip, what I meant was that although most members of the House are very critical of every aspect of the Watergate they seem to be dragging their feet when it comes to making the elections in this country less corrupt."

"I will not accept that. We have been thinking about election reform for some time now. We have been talking about it for more than a year. How can you say we're dragging our feet?"

"Mainly because you haven't done anything."

"Well, I would like to say this. Reforming election campaigns is a very serious matter. We have to look at it from all sides. It's true that there have been abuses, particularly in the area of financing political candidates, and we're very concerned about this. At the same time it would be a mistake if we abolished these abuses and made it more difficult for men of high principle to run."

"Then, Congressman Cheesedip, could I say that you are against election reforms this year?"

"I am not against election reforms. I take the position — and I have said this publicly many times — that we must have reforms in our political process. But I believe it would be a very dangerous thing to pass any laws that would make it more difficult for well-meaning people to contribute to a political campaign. Their voices should be heard, and if they want to do it by financing a particular candidate then I say God bless them. That's the American way of doing things."

"But isn't that the very thing that got the Committee for the Re-Election of the President in all its trouble?"

"I don't think we should be tarred by what the Committee for the Re-Election of the President did. I am proud to say that, although I have received contributions from the milk producers, the oil companies and the construction industries, I have never permitted this to interfere in how I would vote on any particular bill. Every congressman on this Hill feels the same way. If we didn't, we would of course ask for stronger election laws."

"Aren't you afraid, Congressman Cheesedip, that if you don't pass some reform legislation you will be impeached?"

"What are you talking about?"

"The Constitution provides that every two years the American people can impeach a congressman by voting him out of office."

"That's outrageous. You have to prove he's guilty of a high crime or a misdemeanor."

"No you don't. All you have to prove is that the congressman did nothing about corruption in government. Any voter will tell you that's an impeachable offense."

"Hmmrummf. I thought you wanted to talk to me about Watergate."

c. 1974, Los Angeles Times

A conservative view

Must prove Nixon guilt in bribery

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The latest charge against President Nixon, churned up by a staff report from the Senate Watergate committee, is that the President accepted a bribe — that in return for a large pledge to his 1972 campaign, he granted the nation's dairymen in 1971 an increase in milk price supports.

Kilpatrick

The charge strikes me as spurious, but this should be said: If convincing evidence can be adduced under oath, proving that the President's action was directly conditioned upon the campaign pledge, we can forget all the other charges. If the bribery charge is true, Mr. Nixon ought to be impeached, tried, and ousted by sundown tonight. Let the scoundrel go.

But I have returned to Mr. Nixon's own statement on the milk affair, released by the White House on January 8, and that statement still strikes me with the bell-like ring of truth. The events of late 1970 and early 1971 cannot be viewed in a vacuum. When the political wheeling-and-dealing of the milk producers is considered in sum, and when account is given to the whole nature of political contributions, the case against Mr. Nixon collapses.

Consider for a moment a couple of not-so-hypothetical cases. Let us suppose that a major aircraft company, through its executives, makes large contributions to the campaign of a United States senator. On a crucial vote, involving millions of dollars in contracts, the senator votes with the company's position. In a certain House district where organized labor controls a potent vote, the AFL-CIO makes large contributions to the campaign of the congressman. The congressman subsequently votes for repeal of Section 14-b of Taft-Hartley, a vote worth millions to organized labor.

Are these "bribes"? Are the contributions and the votes directly linked? Or would the senator and the congressman have acted as they did out of personal conviction, or from sheer political self-interest?

In his January statement, Mr. Nixon made no bones about his own motivation. He overruled his secretary of agriculture, and granted the higher price support, for largely political reasons. He feared a Democrat-controlled Congress would vote the price increase if he failed to grant it by executive order. The Democrats would thus gain favor with the milk producers, and Mr. Nixon would offend a "vital political constituency."

The President also believed — correctly, as it turned out — that the public interest would be well served by the higher support price. The Senate staff aides who prepared the recent leaked report said the higher price was "worth hundreds of millions of dollars to the industry — and costing the same amount to the government and consumers." That statement is a nice combination of demagoguery and falsehood. Outlays for milk supports actually dropped after Mr. Nixon's action — from $214 million in fiscal 1971 to $174 million in 1972.

The milk producers contributed $427,000 to the Nixon campaign. It was a fat sum. But the milk producers were buttering up everyone. One of the cartoonists recently depicted the milk lobby as a cow with 200 tits. In the last nine months of 1972, the milk producers gave away $1.5 million in political contributions, most of the sum to Democrats.

In the poisonous atmosphere of Washington, the President rarely is accorded the slightest benefit of the doubt. In an inflamed editorial last week, the morning Post exultantly seized upon what it regarded as new proof of Mr. Nixon's perfidy: The President had decided to grant the higher price support on March 23, 1971, but the leaked staff report "made the highly interesting point that two days elapsed between the President's decision and the public announcement of it." For the record, it ought to be said that if that point is highly interesting, the President himself made the identical point in his statement of January 8.

The milk deal, in brief, strikes me thus far as something less than a hot story. Members of the House Judiciary Committee apparently feel the same way. My thought is to cool it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A filibuster is a parliamentary device which allows a U.S. Senator to hold the floor by speaking continuously. A filibuster can delay legislation for weeks if a group of senators work together. In 1917, Senate adopted the "Cloture Rule" which could limit a senator to speak only one hour if two-thirds of the Senate voted to invoke the rule. The law is seldom used as many senators want to guard their unlimited right to speak, The World Almanac notes.

What to do about burns

By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor
(fourth in a series)

Health and safety officials say there are more than two million serious burns and injuries in Canada and the United States every year. Many of these occur among children. In 1970 alone, more than 1,500 children were killed by fires and burns.

Never underestimate the severity of a burn. They are usually larger and more severe than you think.

In the case of burns from fire, here is what to do:

1. Get the child out of the burning area. If clothes are on fire don't let the child run. This will fan and encourage the flames. Put the fire out by wrapping the child in a blanket, rug or other heavy material at hand.

2. If the burn is minor, immerse it in clean ice water, or apply ice packs to the area. Keep it cold for 10 or 15 minutes. Cover the burn with a clean gauze or cloth dressing, or a thin, no-stick plastic covering (clean plastic kitchen wrap works well). Consult a physician.

IF THE BURN IS MORE SERIOUS:

3. Keep the child lying down. Try to keep the head and chest slightly lower than the rest of the body. Keep the child warm.

4. If the child is conscious and can swallow give him nonalcoholic liquids to drink.

5. Watch for shock and treat if necessary.

6. Take the child to a doctor or hospital immediately.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Do not use butter, grease, ointments or powders on burns. These increase the danger of infection and make later treatment more difficult.

Cats' paws refuse to creep off car

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the makers of flags who do not stitch the ends enough to keep the wind from whipping the stitching loose so they soon are frayed. Also they do not use fade-proof mateial. Many flags have to be discarded in a short time if they are flown very often. I have found this to be true with expensive ones and with the more usual less expensive flags. — MARY B.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Phyllis who wants to mount a jigsaw puggle so it can hang on the wall. I have done several the following way and received many compliments. I mount one on a piece of ¼-inch plywood that is cut large enough to leave a "frame" around the puzzle. This border can be painted, stained or antiqued. I like to use acrylic paint smeared on and immediately wiped off until the desired effect is attained. The puzzle is then centered on the board and I fold one half of it back on top of the other side (they must be interlocking puzzles), apply that popular milky white glue to the board and lay the half back on it. Repeat for the other half. I apply the same varnish-like finish one uses for decoupage to the entire puzzle, frame and edges. First allow the glue to thoroughly dry and then dry completely between each coat of the decoupage finish. — LOIS.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Since I have an open garage I have lots of trouble with cats walking all over the top of my car at night. There must be some way to discourage them from jumping up on it but I have not found it. The dirty paw marks they leave look terrible. Any ideas, anyone? — IRMA.

DEAR POLLY — Those who have hand-crocheted bedspreads will find old-time curtain stretchers are wonderful to use for blocking the spreads to their proper shape after washing. These were used for lace curtains and are not too hard to find even now as proven by a recent ad in the paper that brought many answers. — DOROTHY.

wants you to have the answer.

People often ask us at the Post Office about mailing things that are more important than everyday mail. Things like financial and legal papers. Or payments on bills with a penalty date.

With something important, it's a good idea to have proof that you mailed it. And proof it was received. That way, nobody can say you didn't send something when you did.

Certified Mail. Proof you mailed something.

People use Certified Mail when they don't want any question by anybody that something was mailed. It's good for things like mailing your income tax, or paying insurance bills.

Because with Certified Mail you can get a receipt that proves you mailed. And it shows the date, too. This costs 30¢. A record of delivery is kept at the Post Office.

Return Receipt. Proof your mail was received.

Sometimes your mail is so important you can't sleep unless you know it got where it was going.

That's when to use Return Receipt. Because you get a card back that shows you the signature of whoever received your mail.

When you use this service along with Certified Mail, you can get both proof you mailed and proof it was received Return Receipt costs 15¢.

Restricted Delivery. For personal and confidential mail.

With Restricted Delivery, we take your mail only to the person you say—and nobody else at that address can get it. Used with Return Receipt, you'll get a card back with that person's signature, and only his signature. The only exception is to government officials whose volume of mail makes Restricted Delivery impossible.

Restricted Delivery is good for things like very personal letters when you want only one certain person to see what you wrote. And for confidential mail, like when you complete a credit application. Or send contract papers to your bank or lawyer. Restricted Delivery costs an extra 50¢.

Registered Mail. Extra security for valuables.

Registered Mail is the safest way to mail things of value. For example, jewelry or checks that are negotiable. Let's say you send a watch to your nephew for a graduation present, and you send it Registered Mail. That watch will be signed in and out every step on its way to your nephew. Which means someone in the Post Office is always personally responsible for its safety. Registered Mail starts at 95¢, and you get insurance for anywhere up to $10,000.

We're here to help.

There are many different ways you can send your mail. And, we want you to know how to use our different services when you need them. So we've put together a handy booklet for you called A Consumer's Guide to Postal Services and Products. It's easy to read, and will give you lots of help with your mail. They're free while they last at your Post Office.

Big hole-in-one prizes offered

Benefit tourney this weekend

The Second-annual Virginia Flower Children's Therapy Center Invitational Golf Tournament is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at Walnut Hills Country Club.

The tournament, a two-man best ball event, will feature some of the outstanding amateur players in Missouri. Included are two previous Missouri state men's amateur champions, Don Smith of Kansas City and Bruce Hollowell of Springfield. All told, 130 players are in the field.

Jerry McFerren of Crofton, Md., brother of past WHCC golf professional Bob McFerren, won the initial benefit event last year after a long trip from Frankfurt, Germany. McFerren edged Bob Devine of Kansas City by two strokes to capture the Virginia Flower Children's Therapy Center Benefit Trophy.

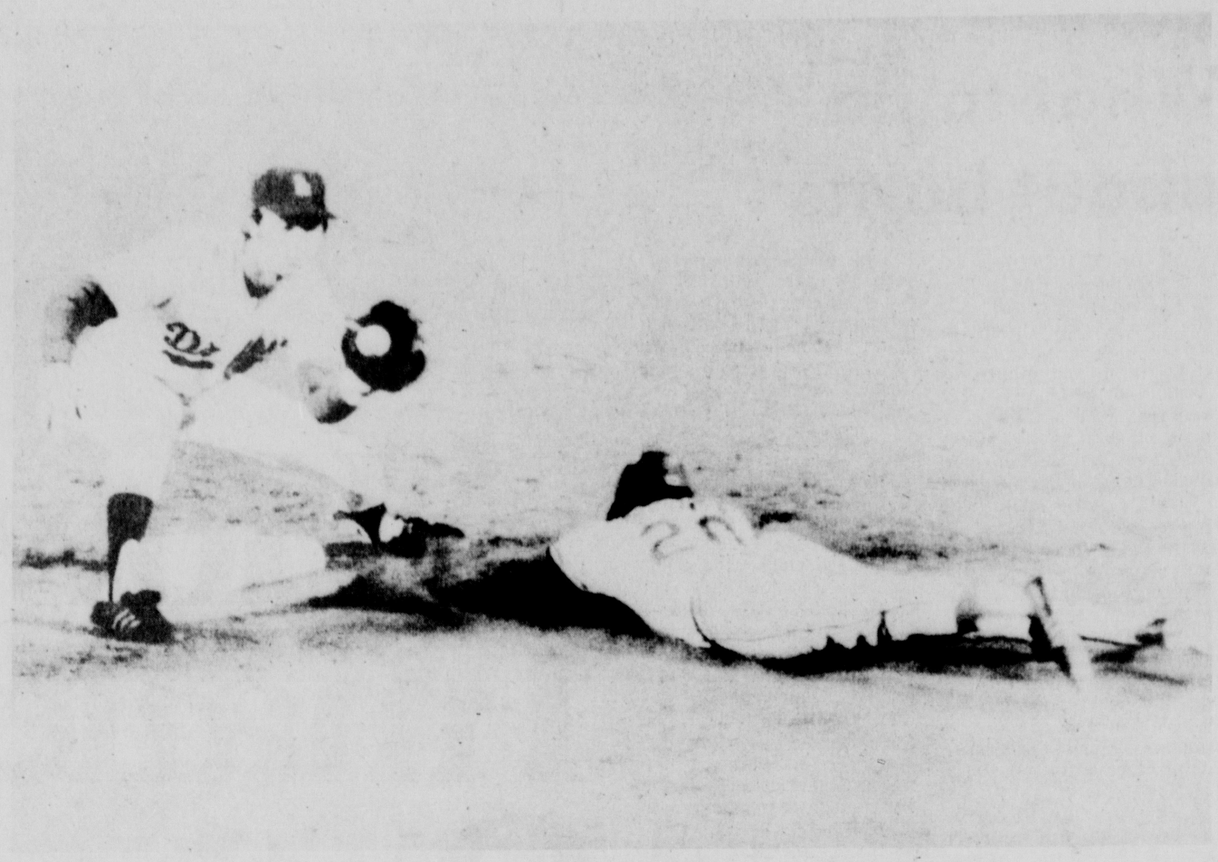
Proceeds from the tournament will go to the Children's Therapy Center.

A Mark IV Lincoln is being offered for a hole-in-one on the long, 216-yard par three hole. For the 177-yard, par three 10th hole, a golfer can pick up a Harley-Davidson golf cart for carding a hole-in-one.

The car is being sponsored by Town and Country Motors; the golf cart has been put up by club professional Ward Anderson and Sedalia Implement.

Players will be broken down into three flights, with prizes being offered to the top four finishers in each division.

Spectators are invited to attend both rounds of the 36-hole event.



Brock beats tag

St. Louis Cardinals Lou Brock dives head first into second beating Los Angeles' Bill Russell's tag in the seventh inning Monday night. Moments later, Brock tried to steal third, but was called out on the attempt. St. Louis took the Dodgers into extra innings before defeating them, 4-2. (UPI)

NFL owners, players open bargaining talks

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners and players, having played to standoffs in their earlier meetings, will scrimmage across the bargaining table again today in an attempt to settle their differences and prevent a strike on July 1.

They meet here today, Wednesday and Thursday, with nine more meetings scheduled through July 3, if necessary.

If there is no resolution by the end of Thursday's meeting, sessions are scheduled for Washington June 18, 19 and 20, in New York June 25, 26 and 27, with a return to Washington for meetings July 1, 2 and 3.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, has called July 1 as the deadline for the strike, however, saying the walkout would include rookies and could force cancellation of the July 26 charity game between the College All-Stars and the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins in Chicago.

The San Diego Chargers are the first NFL team to open training camp. They start on July 4. The All-Stars are to report July 7.

Scheduled for discussion in the meetings which began today are the more substantive, so-called "freedom demands," including the abolition of the reserve clause which binds a player to one club.

Other demands cover the "Rozelle rule"—a regulation named after NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle which requires compensation for an athlete who plays out the option year of his contract, then joins another club; option clauses; the waiver system; fines, and impartial arbitration.

Torre breaks up deadlock; Cards dump Dodgers in 11

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Torre says he's pleased with all the support he's receiving in the balloting for the National League's All-Star first baseman.

He's leading with more than 45,000 votes—but he says Steve Garvey, the Los Angeles first baseman, "is the man who should win it without a doubt."

But Torre, the 33-year-old veteran, drew considerable support Monday night when he broke a 2-2 tie in the 11th inning, sending the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 victory over the Dodgers.

The Cards remain two games behind first-place Philadelphia in the National League's Eastern Division while the Dodgers, despite only their seventh loss in 32 home games, stay eight games in front of second-place Cincinnatin in the West.

Torre, after a long climb, is batting .296.

"I've been spotty the last couple of weeks," he said, "but I've been more comfortable at the plate lately. I've been putting too much pressure on myself. I've been trying too hard at the plate."

Torre hit his game-winning homer off knuckleballer Charlie Hough who hadn't permitted a run in 13 innings during seven appearances. But Hough joined a rather elite group by serving up the home run to Torre. It was Torre's third home run in Dodger Stadium. The others were hit off Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Don Sutton.

Jim Wynn hit his 17th home run of the year in the fourth inning for Los Angeles, after consecutive doubles by Ted Sizemore and Reggie Smith had given St. Louis a 1-0 lead in the third. The home run gave Wynn the NL. RBI lead with 52, one more than Smith and Garvey.

The Cards went in front again in the sixth when Luis Melendez' sacrifice fly scored Ted Simmons, who had doubled.

But Los Angeles got even in the bottom half of the sixth when Wynn Singled, stole second, took third on an error and came home on a sacrifice fly by Willie Crawford.

After that the Dodgers' frustration began in earnest. They stranded two runners in the seventh, two in the eighth and left the bases loaded in the ninth.

Air Force coach holds lead by three strokes

HOT SPRINGS VILLAGE, Ark. (AP) — Ben Martin, coach at the Air Force Academy, held a three-stroke lead in the National Coaches' Invitation Golf Tournament going into its second and final round today. Martin shot a one-over par 73 Monday. He toured the back nine in 38 and carded 35 on his second nine.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles, a two-time tournament winner, was in hot pursuit, firing twin 38s for an opening 76.

Broyles was followed by Houston Coach Bill Yeoman who shot a 37 on the front side but dipped to a 40 on the back for a 77.

"I wish this was a one-day tournament," laughed Martin, who has finished third in two previous tournaments.

Texas Coach Darrel Royal, another two-time winner, and Lavell Edwards of Brigham Young were tied at 78. Dave Smith of Southern Methodist shot a 79.

In the sportswriter-television division, Larry Guest of the Orlando Sentinel-Star posted a 74 in defense of his championship. He held a four-shot lead.

Joe Eason, president of the Astro-Blue Bonnet Bowl, shot a 77 for the lead in the special guest division.

Jimmy Wynn 7th

Hank Aaron leads voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers may be leading the National League in home runs and tied for the lead in runs batted in, but in All-Star votes he's seventh among outfielders, according to figures released Monday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

Wynn, with 16 home runs and 51 RBI, has drawn 18,679 votes in the first week of fan balloting for the classic—nearly 64,000 fewer than the present leader, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves.

Aaron, 40, who became the all-time home run king early in the season by hitting his 715th, got 82,121 votes to lead the league. Aaron, a member of every All-Star team since 1955, was followed by Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals with 57,756 and the Cardinals' Lou Brock with 45,605.

The next three players are Cincinnati's Pete Rose, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, and Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. After Wynn, Houston's Cesar Cedeno is eighth in the balloting, but in another surprise, the NL's leading hitter, Atlanta's Ralph Garr, is eighth.

The Reds have leaders at three other positions, according to this week's figures. Reds catcher Johnny Bench, with 64,116 votes, leads Ted Simmons of St. Louis by nearly 27,000; Joe Morgan tops second basemen with 44,501 ballots—almost 15,000 more than Dave Cash of the Philadelphia Phillies; and in the league's closest race, Dave Concepcion has 25,535 votes for shortstop to lead Philadelphia's Larry Bowa by 3,000.

Pittsburgh's Richie Hebner heads NL third basemen, drawing 23,980 votes to 19,893 for Atlanta's Derrell Evans, and first baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, with 46,755 leads Cincinnati's Tony Perez by nearly 20,000. Steve Garvey of the Dodgers was another suprisingly weak draw, taking third behind Perez in the first baseman balloting despite sharing the RBI lead with teammate Wynn.

The first American League figures will be announced Friday.

Stiffen NHL penalties

Campbell nixes Imlach's claim

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League passed sweeping changes Monday to speed up its hockey games, then put the theory into practice at the intraleague draft.

It took just 25 minutes for the 16 teams to conduct the draft, but the Buffalo Sabres' mischievous General Manager Punch Imlach found time to disrupt the activity by drafting a player who had been taken earlier in the proceedings.

The California Seals opened the draft by selecting defenseman Jim Neilson from the New York Rangers. The Rangers, with the option of taking compensation in cash or player personnel from the Seals, selected big forward Walt McKechnie.

The deal had been reported coming last week. McKechnie would go to the Rangers, then be traded by New York to the Boston Bruins for center Derek Sanderson.

The surprise came when Imlach selected McKechnie. His claim was disallowed by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

"I was looking for the best hockey player available," said Imlach. "McKechnie was the best player available at the time."

Imlach was upset because since the Rangers had already lost Neilson, McKechnie would automatically be protected in the NHL's expansion draft Wednesday. In effect, the Rangers would then be protecting 19 players—one over the limit.

Otherwise, there wasn't much action. The New York Islanders selected Dave Fortier from the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the Vancover Canucks took Jim Wiley from the Pittsburgh Penguins, the St. Louis Blues drafted Brian Ogilvie from thr Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings drafted Ron Busniuk from the Buffalo Sabres.

All the other clubs passed their choices.

Changes were made to stiffen penalty times for various infractions, and in goalie equipment repairs and substitutions.

Linesmen will be instructed to drop the pucks for faceoffs even if one center—after prior warning—is not suitably prepared for the faceoff.

Surgery could end Marichal's hurling career

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Juan Marichal may have to undergo a disc operation that would probably end his career.

Marichal, 35, who left the team May 27 to consult with his own doctor concerning numbness in the thumb and first two fingers of his pitching hand, informed the Red Sox from San Francisco that his doctor wants him to have a Mylegram to determine if he needs surgery.

Marichal is tied with St. Louis' Bob Gibson for the most wins by an active pitcher and in five appearances for Boston this year he's compiled a 2-1 record. However, he hasn't pitched since May 15.

His lifetime record is 240-141.

Pepsi-Cola takes over top spot in SBR play

Sedalia Pepsi-Cola took over sole possession of first place in the Senior Babe Ruth loop at Liberty Park Monday behind the one-hit pitching of Paul Kostopolus.

The defending champion Pepsi squad downed last year's runner-up Third National Bank, 2-0, despite a courageous effort by Third National moundsman Cliff Callis.

Callis, in his first year of play in the league, pitched well in his initial effort, holding the powerful Pepsi lineup to one run through the first five innings. But Kostopolus was brilliant, striking out 16 and hurling six innings of no-hit ball.

Third National's Mark Wheeler ended Kostopolus' bid for a no-hitter when he ripped a 1-0 pitch up the middle for his team's only hit of the night.

Brian Kennon poled a home run in the opening game for Snowden Mize Sporting Goods, but VFW still came out on top 5-3.

Mark Stockstill was the winning pitcher while Pat Fiene was saddled with the loss.

The win places VFW in a second place tie with Third National with each team standing 1-1.

Is the era over?

'Young lions' move in on Nicklaus

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The Jack Nicklaus era is over, says Johnny Miller.

That doesn't mean that the slender young blond is ready to claim pro golf's throne for his own—even though his credentials are all in order.

Not at all.

"I just think that the time is past when any one man will dominate the game," Miller said. "There are too many good players for that to happen now.

"I'm not knocking Jack," Miller emphasized. "Not at all. He's still my idol—sort of. He's probably the best player in the world. But I don't think you're going to see Jack winning 50 per cent of his starts any more.

"There are just too many good young players now," he said, and ticked off the list of the men who have become known as the game's Young Lions: "Hubert Green, Jerry Heard, John Mahaffey—he's a great player. Mahaffey is, and I guess Hubie (Green) has been the outstanding player on the tour in the last two months—Ben Crenshaw, Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Lanny Wadkins, even though Lanny has had his troubles this year, he's a really good player. He's a real competitor. He wants to beat your brains out for 10 cents."

Miller added: "And there's (Tom) Weiskopf, too. In just the last year he's become a great player.

"I disagree with Tom, though. He said he thinks the golf courses are being set up too easy and that's why we're getting all these real low scores. . . .

"I think we're getting all these real low scores because there are just so many good players out here now. Boy, you make one mistake and a whole bunch of guys just go flying right by you, just whoosh. It happens all the time. . . ."

Miller and Green, of course, have been the dominant figures on the tour this year. Miller has won five tournaments and $203,000. Green has won three events and $156,000. They rank one-two in both categories going into the U.S. Open championshap, the most prestigious of all the world's titles.

Nicklaus, winner of but one title this season but still the game's most feared competitor, said of the emergence of the game's young players: "I'm glad to see it. I was glad to see Tom (Weiskopf) come along like he did last year. "I was glad when Lee (Trevino) came along. I'm glad to see Johnny and Lanny and Hubert and the other young players developing.

"They provide competition." Which, Nicklaus says, is "what this game is all about. It's competition."

Misses baseball, not Finley

Williams big hit on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Won't somebody please hire Dick Williams? The manager who was finessed out of baseball by Charles O. Finley belongs to the game like peanuts and resin.

Williams made a vicarious comeback Monday night as a commentator on the NBC telecast of the Red Sox-Oakland A's game, which Boston won 4-1.

It was painfully obvious he would rather have been down on the field. Williams managed both the Sox and the A's to World Series victories, and he knows the teams and the game better than he knows the whiskers in his gray mustache.

But if there is no managerial spot open to the gregarious Williams, he should land a TV contract. He could contribute a great deal to the troubled sport with his easy expertise and his natural ability to speak lucidly.

Except for the onerous chore of reading the lineups, Williams came across like an old pro on the tube. At times, you couldn't tell the amateur from the regulars.

Williams behaved himself. Despite nudging from NBC announcers Curt Gowdy and Tony Kubek, he did not put the bite on Finley.

Asked if he missed the A's, Williams answered carefully, "I miss the ball players. We met before the game and it was enjoyable."

In an interview before the game, Williams told The AP, "I miss baseball, but not Mr. Finley. I haven't missed Mr. Finley since last Oct. 22—the day I resigned."

Williams quit the A's after winning the World Series last year. He said during the winter that the final straw was Finley's attempt to replace infielder Mike Andrews on the roster after Andrews made two errors in a Series game.

"Mr. Finley said in March I was free to manage any club except the New York Yankees," Williams said. Asked if he had contacted any teams or had been contacted, he responded, "Negative, both ways. I've been busy doing a lot of traveling for Mr. MacArthur."

Williams works now as a public relations executive for Florida real estate tycoon John MacArthur.

The Yankees wanted Williams and they had an opening. Finley at first gave his consent to Williams' leaving the A's with two years left on his contract. Then Finley demanded players from the Yankees and when they refused, he went to the league and then to court to enforce Williams' contract. Williams couldn't manage for two years.

But he says he is keeping up with baseball.

Asked if he would like to manage the American League All-Star team, Williams said, "(American League President) Lee MacPhail and (Baltimore Orioles Manager) Earl Weaver said on the banquet circuit that I should. I would like to manage the All-Star team. But I think they have a manager and I wouldn't know what uniform to wear."

As for his TV commentary, it was crisp and authoritative.

Williams explained the half-concrete, half-metal left-field wall in Boston's Fenway Park; the books managers keep on opposing players; Vida Blue ("he's riding that fast ball . . . "); the qualities of a good umpire, and how to tell when a pitcher is tiring.

It added something.

Masterton award goes to Richard

MONTREAL (AP) — Henri Richard, 38-year-old captain of the Montreal Canadiens, today was named recipient of the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy awarded annually by the Professional Hockey Writers' Association.

Richard just completed his 19th National Hockey League season and easily outdistanced forwards Ed Westfall of the New York Islanders and Rod Gilbert of the New York Rangers in voting for the trophy.

The trophy is given to "the National Hockey League player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship, and dedication to hockey."

It also carries a $1,000 cash award.

Tonight in Atlanta

'Dead End Kid' goes against ex-teammates

ATLANTA (AP) — The latest chapter in the adventures of Atlanta's "Dead End Kid," Buzz Capra, continues tonight when the major league's latest phenom takes on his former New York Met mates and struggling Tom Seaver.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected at Atlanta Stadium for the first meeting this season between the defending National League East winners and the Braves, who have won 17 of 24 starts with Capra leading the way.

"He's an amazing little guy," says Atlanta Manager Eddie Mathews, who dubbed the 5-foot-10, 160-pounder "Dead End Kid."

Capra leads the National League with a 1.17 earned run average.

What Capra, 5-2, has done since joining the starting rotation when Ron Reed broke a finger in May, is simply amazing.

The 26-year-old right-hander has reeled off 25 consecutive scoreless innings and in all, pitched 51 innings since May 15—allowing three earned runs. He has a string of five straight victories as a starter, including two shutouts, and has been involved in a no-decision when he fired blanks for nine innings.

His ERA in that span is 0.75, allowing just 25 hits while walking 10 and striking out 30.

"I'm not believing in any strange gods, but you have to believe things are going your way. You have to think positive," says the Chicago native.

"I'm just going real good right now, that's all. When you get in a groove, things tend to go your way," says the ex-Met, who was 2-7 with New York last year and 5-10 over-all in two years of service there. He reportedly cost the Braves $30,000 to acquire in spring training.

Sam Snead not worrin' 'bout it

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — If the miserable, unshakable old character known as the "U. S. Open Jinx" is hanging around locker No. 538 at the Winged Foot Golf Club this week, Sam Snead is paying him no mind.

"It don't bother me none," the 62-year-old, sweet-swinging hillbilly from Hot Springs, Va., drawled. "As somebody once said, if it's not your life and not your wife, what difference does it make?"

Snead launches his 31st try for the U.S. Open crown, starting Thursday, and he insists he is not lying awake at night grieving over the half-dozen or so of the big championships that got away.

"If I've got a shot, it's a long one," Snead said. "All my life, it seems I get a sinking spell about this time every year—Open time, in June. I'm not putting good.

"People always say I get tight and press too hard in the Open and that's why I've never won. That's not so. Whether it's the Open, the Masters or any other tournament I give it a run.

"If it's my turn to win, I win. If it's somebody else's turn, I don't win. I think there's some unseen force that decides these things, and I believe it's been willed that I never win the Open, just as it looks like it's willed that Arnold Palmer will never win the PGA."

Snead, elevated to the list of Golf Immortals at the National Awards Dinner in New York Monday night, is one of the game's phenomenons. In a 41-year pro career, he has won 134 tournaments, including three Masters, three PGAs and the British Open—but never the U. S. Open.

"It looked like I was jinxed from the very first Open I played in 1937," he said. "I was in the club house with 283. Everybody was congratulating me. Then Ralph Guldahl had to sink 10-foot putts for bogeys on the 10th and 11th. On the 15th, he hit a ball which would have been almost unplayable and a spectator stopped it with his foot.

"He got a par when he would have been lucky to get a six. He won by two shots. Everything happened bad after that."

Similar mishaps confounded him in later years.

"You can't let it bug you," Sam said. "You gotta remember all you can do is play it free and easy. Some invisible force is calling the shots."

Big Tom

The signing Monday of 7-2 North Carolina State center Tom Burleson (standing) to a five-year, no-cut contract with the Seattle SuperSonics puts a new perspective on the chances of the Sonics in making the NBA Playoffs for the first time. Sonics' coach Bill Russell (seated) said the club "went out of its way to get Tommy." The contract was believed to amount to nearly $2 million. (UPI)

CMBJ looks for break in weather

Hoping for a better shake from the weather man than it got last week, the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League swings back into action tonight on two fronts — Tipton and Boonville.

Ten games, including three doubleheaders were postponed because of rain or wet grounds last week in the 11-team league.

Columbia, which lost its season's opener last week to California, will be in Tipton for an 8 p.m. game tonight.

Boonville, the leader in the tight Western Division race, plays host to New Franklin, also scheduled under the lights at 8 p.m.

Wednesday at 8 p.m., California is at Centralia.

The next action for Sedalia, which trails Boonville in the West by only one-half game, is Sunday in Lexington, where the teams will meet in a doubleheader.

Two main events on mat schedule

A double-main event, featuring two championship bouts tops tonight's wrestling show at Convention Hall in Liberty Park.

Don Fargo, Central States champ, puts his title on the line against Pat O'Connor in the main event. The other feature pits International Champion Cyclone Negro against Rufus R. Jones.

Ronnie Etchison goes against Lord Alfred Hayes in a grude match that makes up the semifinal.

Bob Brown and Omar Atlas are paired in the 8:30 p.m. opener.

Kodes eliminated in quarterfinals

PARIS (AP) — The men's singles of the French Open Tennis tournament settle down today to the usual European flavor, with some Latin American spice.

With four quarter-final spots filled, the lineup reads: One Frenchman, one Spaniard, one West German and one Chilean. The last four quarter-finalists will be decided today.

The biggest surprise was the arrival of Francois Jauffret, a 7-6 7-5, 7-5 winner over Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the 1970 and 1971 French champion who had been seeded No. 2, in a match that finished under floodlights on the red clay center court at Roland Garros Stadium.

Jauffret, the No. 1 French player who is at home at Roland Garros, was not rated in the same class as Kodes, the 1973 Wimbeldon champion and Forest Hills runnerup in 1971 and 1973. But in the crunch it was Kodes who wilted in the cool night air.

In the third set, Kodes served a double fault at break point in the ninth game. In the 11th game he led 40-15, then served three double faults, including the final point.

The top half of the quarter-final draw pits Jauffret against Hans-Jurgen Pohmann of West Germany and Manuel Orantes of Spain against Patricio Cornejo of Chile.

Orantes defeated Arthur Ashe of Miami, co-No. 3 seed 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Pohmann eliminated Eddie Dibbs of Miami, co-No. 9 seed, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Cornejo defeated Jaime Fillol of Chile, his doubles partner.

Fourth round matches today to complete the quarter-final had Raul Ramirez of Mexico vs. Tom Koch of Brazil; Erik Van Dillen of Aptos, Calif., vs. Bjorn Borg of Sweden, a co-No. 3 seed; Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., vs. Marty Riessen of Amelia Island, Fla., U.S. ranked No. 7; and Ilie Nastase of Romania, defending champion seeded No. 1, vs. Onny Parun of New Zeland.

The women's singles quarter-final pairings: Helga Masthoff, West Germany vs. Martina Navratilova, Czechoslovakia; Raquel Giscafre, Argentinia vs. Katja Ebbinghaus, West Germany; Olga Morozova, Russia vs. Maria Neumannova, Czechoslovakia; Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. vs. Julie Heldman, Houston.

Opening lead—♣A

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Inability to see the forest because of all the trees is a common fault of many bridge players.

North wanted to know why South made such a light vulnerable opening bid. South wanted to know why North hadn't doubled four clubs and taken a sure profit. Neither one noticed that South had a cinch way to make his game.

West opened the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. The king was played from dummy. East ruffed and led back a heart whereupon South had to lose a finesse in that suit and one in diamonds to wind up one trick short.

All South had to do was not to play dummy's king of clubs when he did. If East ruffed the second club to lead a heart South would win; draw trumps and discard his queen of hearts on that nice club king.

If East didn't ruff. West's best play would be to lead a third club. East would ruff; South would overruff and draw trumps. Then he would lose the diamond finesse but would not have to take a heart finesse because dummy's fourth diamond would be a parking place for the heart queen.

Says farm economy important

"The economy of the farmer is tied in closely with the economy of the community and businessman serving him," Jim Sprake, owner of a livestock publication in St. Joseph, told members of the Rotary Club at noon Monday at Ramada Inn.

"When the farmer makes more, he spends more and the dollars he spends in a community multiply four times before they move through," Sprake stated.

Sprake has been a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Agriculture since his appointment by Gov. Warren Hearnes in 1967 and his reappointment by Gov. Christopher Bond. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He related that the council meets every two months to discuss agricultural problems and then recommends to the governor matters of concern to agriculture.

Stressing the importance of farm production to Pettis County's economy, Sprake pointed out that in 1973 corn produced here was worth in excess of $8 million, soybeans between $6 and $7 million, wheat $1½ million and that cattle raising had increased in 1973 from 68,000 head to 84,000 head, that there are 65,000 head of hogs, and 3,000 head of dairy cattle.

He suggested that the farmer and businessman get together to work out a processing arrangement whereby the product of the farmer was processed in the community ready for the consumer and so that both would realize the greatest benefit.

The speaker was introduced by Everett Wood, program chairman.

In other club activity, Everett Wood was elected a member of the club's board of directors to fill a vacancy, and club president Robert Phillips called on Boyd Massey, who gave a three-minute biographical sketch.

Guests were Rotarian Ken Stockard, Lee's Summit; Rotarian Waldo Feaster, Clinton; Rotarian Ted Linger, Warrensburg; and Bob Frederich, Sedalia, with Ewing Gibson. They were introduced by Dave Clingman.

Winter wheat harvest reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought and disease has reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains. Kansas, which normallz produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from May's estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were exported.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark.

If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

"I still think it is too high," said Creel Brock, administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission, in a telephone interview. "We're going to stick with the 300 million bushels yet for a while."

Tom Ostrander of Wellington, Kan., president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, said the new estimate is "a lot better than they came out with before, but we still think they're too high. I hope they're right, but I just can't see that much wheat in Kansas this year."

Ostrander pointed out that harvesting has started in southern Kansas and farmers who thought they would get 35 bushels per acre are getting 25.

Growers and congressmen from wheat states have protested that the USDA's estimates have driven down the price of the grain unrealistically.

Starting with the Soviet Union's big purchases two years ago, wheat prices rose from $1.30 a bushel to a record high of $5.32 last February.

Then optimistic reports of the new crop and predictions of declining exports were followed by a sharp slide in price.

The USDA said the average price on the farm May 15 was $3.52 a bushel, a plunge of nearly 40 per cent in only three months.

An aide to RPE. Keith Sebelius, R-Kan., whose district is the major wheat producer in the state, said Monday "all these predictions have done so far is beat down the price to our farmers."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said "It just isn't the kind of crop we had last year."

The indicated production and average yields for 1974 for other states included:

Arkansas 12,800,000 bushels and 32 bushels per acre; Missouri 44,400,000 and 37; Nebraska 108,300,000 and 38; Oklahoma 147,500,000 and 25.

MFB head criticizes phone rates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission's recent proposal for reduced toll charges on long distance calls over less than 23 miles was termed "just a token reduction" Monday by the president of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

"MFB, on behalf of its members, is looking for a way for telephone patrons to call their trade center toll-free," Johnston said, "because many of our members in rural areas cannot call a doctor, sheriff, veterinarian or their machinery dealer without having to make a toll call."

Johnston pointed out, however, that the commission did recommend procedures to be followed for the institution of extended area toll-free service, calling that "at least a move in the right direction."

The PSC has yet to adopt either the reduced toll rate or the procedures for extended toll-free service. A spokesman said hearings on the rate changes will be scheduled soon.

Johnston also said he hoped a solution could be found for what he termed "patchwork-pattern telephone service."

"Many telephone customers can call one nearby town toll-free while they have to pay a toll to call a closer town off in another direction," Johnston said.

Ruling on timber cutting is upheld

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday upheld the ruling of a Minnesota District Court prohibiting the cutting of timber in Minnesota's Superior National Forest.

In a 6-3 decision, the court voted to continue an injunction until the U.S. Forest Service prepares a statement assessing the impact of logging on the environment.

The Department of Agriculture has leased timber rights to seven companies in the 640,000 acres of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

The suit seeking the injunction was brought in 1972 by the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group.

Nearly 10,000 men deployed to protect Nixon in Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Nixon jetted across the Atlantic Monday, U.S. Secret Service agents and host country security men are being deployed in unprecedented numbers throughout the Middle East.

According to several sources, never have so many men—upwards of 10,000—been assigned to protect a President.

Publicly, officials in Washington and the Middle East disclaim excessive concern for Nixon's safety.

"Security as always will be dealt with," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

But privately, some security officials express deep concern about the President's safety in a region scarred by violence and terrorist attacks for a quarter-century. The extensive security preparations underscore their concern.

The Secret Service has called agents from field offices across the country to beef up the agency's White House detail, a spokesman said. He would not discuss numbers, but it is believed that more than 100 agents—perhaps as many as 250—are involved in guarding the President during his trip.

But the size of the U.S. security team is dwarfed by host country forces. In Syria, for example, about 2,000 plainclothesmen were deployed for security during Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's repeated trips to Damascus in troop disengagement negotiations.

Syrian officials acknowledge that this force will be more than doubled for President Nixon," by 3,000 crack paratroopers.

Jordan's King Hussein has been the target of past assassination attempts, and there will be "tightening everywhere" for Nixon's visit, according to one unofficial source.

The head of the White House Secret Service detail, Dick Kaiser, has been in the Middle East for a week, conferring with the host countries in arranging security.

The time frame for security planning is much shorter than on previous presidential trips overseas. Usually, advance teams are sent out two to three weeks ahead. On this trip, they went one week ahead.

Nixon's bulletproof limousines are being flown to the Middle East. Helicopters from the presidential fleet also are heading there aboard giant cargo planes.

Agents talk privately of the risks involved in Nixon or Kissinger mingling in crowds.

They also worry about security in the moments immediately after the presidential jetliner takes off, since some terrorist groups are said to possess small, heat-seeking missiles capable of bringing down a low-flying aircraft.

Agents are being assigned around-the-clock to guard presidential aircraft and the luggage of the President's party.

Special precautions also are being applied to newsmen traveling with the chief executive in a pair of chartered jetliners, and their luggage.

Oral history of Seminoles in Everglades objective

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — James Billie says he plans to record on tape an oral history of the Seminole Indians, who once ruled the vast Florida Everglades.

The Seminoles traditionally preserved the history of their culture by passing the information on verbally from generation to generation.

Billie, a Vietnam veteran and manager of the Okalee Indian Village, says he wants to collect an oral history of what life was like for the Seminoles when they fished and hunted in the Everglades.

Using airboats and canoes, he plans to take older Indians from the three Seminole reservations back into the great swamp they once roamed and have them tell of their history and their memories.

"I'll have a tape recorder and it will be running all the time," Billie said.

"When I see the young kids of today, I think many of them are deprived of their Indian heritage. I get angry when I see Indian children whose parents have to work their butts off to earn a living, and so they don't have time to teach the children about the old ways."

Billie, whose goal as manager of Okalee is to make the village an educational facility as well as a profitable tourist attraction, says there has been a loss of spirit among the Seminoles, primarily in the love of nature that once guided their lives.

Billie, whose mother was an Indian and father was an Irish sailor he never knew, said his own interest in his Indian heritage was kept alive by a grandmother who raised him and would "tell me Indian stories every night until we fell asleep."

Brother's death ruled justifiable

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Fred Leroy Spires, 29, Moody, Mo., charged June 1 with first-degree murder in the shooting of his brother, Kenneth, has been released by Magistrate W. C. Scott.

Scott ruled Monday at Spires' preliminary hearing that the shooting was justifiable homicide.

It occurred during an argument at the home of the brothers' father, Curtis Spires. Police said Kenneth, 42, suffered two .30-caliber rifle wounds in the chest.

Tremendous plans seen on the economic agenda

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the years from 1967 to 1973 there occurred what often is called an explosion of credit, amounting to $600 billion. And what are the projections for the next six years? Somewhere around $1.5 trillion.

This is the amount that government, business and households are expected to need if other projections are to be fulfilled, mainly those that call for a continued expansion of the economy and an upgrading of the quality of life.

Tremendous plans are on the agenda.

Corporations hope to enlarge and make their plants more productive in order to reduce the shortages of goods. And they are being compelled by law to make their plants more ecologically acceptable and more wholesome for workers.

The federal government seems bent on providing more and more services and may be unable or unwilling to cut its icnreasing demands for financing. That means all other borrowers will have stiff competition for funds.

Individuals and householders have learned to rely on credit to finance the life styles they have been led to believe are rightfully theirs, even if they haven't the cold cash in hand.

All these plans would seem reason for great excitement among financiers, but the truth is they are producing apprehension instead. Nobody really knows how all the money is going to be raised.

Speaking at a Conference Board meeting a few days ago, Dimitri N. Balatsos, economist and vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., listed some of the problem areas that worry some financial men.

—Corporate profits could continue under pressure for the entire period, lessening the appeal of stock investments. High interest rates and labor costs, and demands for greater social responsibility, might cut into earnings.

—The alternative to equity financing through the stock market is to borrow. But during this period some $25 billion of maturing bonds must be refinanced. That is, old bills must be paid before taking on new ones.

—Savings might fail to keep pace with economic activity. The demographic makeup of the population is charging, with the 25-45 year age group showing the biggest increase. These are spenders; they have a low propensity to save.

Based on current understanding of the situation, severe bottlenecks seem inevitable. Balatsos retains some optimism, although it seems to arise more from faith than from any evidence now available.

During the latter part of the Middle Ages, he notes, the mood was somber and people were preoccupied with death. They didn't know that the Renaissance was in the making.

Could it be that a financial renaissance is in the making? We better hope so.

Magazine reports Nixon was warned

NEW YORK (AP) — Time magazine says ex-White House aide Charles W. Colson told Watergate investigators he warned President Nixon about the Watergate cover-up two months before Nixon says he found out about it.

Quoting "knowledgeable people close to Colson," the magazine said in its latest issue that Colson has told the investigators he talked of the cover-up with the President in January and February of 1973.

Nixon has said he learned on March 21, 1973, of attempts to cover up the break-in from former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Colson pleaded guilty last week to obstruction of justice in connection with the burglary of the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

According to Time, in January Colson "told the President: 'Something is going on here that is very wrong. There's got to be an investigation.' Colson quotes Nixon as replying, 'What do you think we ought to do?' Colson's answer: 'I'll see what I can find out.'"

Time said that by February Colson learned of payments to the original Watergate defendants that allegedly were approved by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

"Colson promptly warned the President that these payoffs were taking place," Time said. "Nixon's alleged reply: 'What do you mean? Mitchell says he's innocent.'"

The magazine's account said Colson told H.R. Haldeman, then-White House chief of staff, that Mitchell must come forward and accept blame for the payoffs.

"Haldeman answered: 'If Mitchell goes, he's going to take you with him.'" said Time.

Time also said that Colson told investigators he discussed executive clemency with Nixon for convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt after Hunt's wife was killed in a Chicago plane crash in December 1972, but the magazine said it could not be learned if Colson contended Nixon approved the clemency.

Syria accused of 'brutal torture'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel has accused Syria of "brutal torture" of Israeli prisoners and says it will protest to the United Nations.

Syria countered with charges that Israel mistreated Arab prisoners. Each government denied the other's accusations.

The Israeli government issued an official statement Sunday expressing "indignation and revulsion" at reports from returning POWs that they were regularly beaten with rubber truncheons and burned with electric lights. The prisoners said they were given poor food and medical treatment.

Some prisoners said they could not publicly reveal the worst of the tortures.

Despite the exhange of atrocity charges, an Israeli military command spokesman said disengagement of forces on the Golan Heights was proceeding according to schedule.

The state radio said Israeli troops were establishing new antitank defenses west of the Golan capital of Quneitra and bulldozing a high embankment between the Syrian city and nearby Israeli settlements.

A spokesman said the withdrawal is to be completed by June 23.

Meanwhile, President Hafez Assad of Syria said in a television interview broadcast in the United States Sunday that his country "is seriously endeavoring to have good and normal relations with the United States."

Syria broke relations with Washington during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. It has since depended almost exclusively on the Soviet Union and East Europe for military and economic aid.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was in Cairo, winding up a tour of the Middle East, and said he had found a "whole new atmosphere" of cooperation in the five countries he had visited.

Cairo newspapers reported that victory arches and cheering crowds will greet President Nixon in Cairo and Alexandria this week.

Nixon leaves today on the first leg of his 15,000-mile trip. After two nights in the Austrian Alps, he will visit Egypt, Saudia Arabia, Israel, Syria and Jordan.

Wooden bicycle

Grant Barnum of Boulder, Colo., displays a wooden bicycle which he made testing ideas for a folding 10-speed bike that could be carried indoors for easy storage. The University of Colorado engineering senior took on the design job as a class project. He next plans to design a folding metal bike with a weight limit of 25 pounds. (UPI)

Japan's guest house combines Baroque, simple

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's multimillion-dollar new state guest house, a baroque style palace and a superbly spare Japanese pavilion, stand side by side in almost painful contrast in the center of Tokyo.

Reserved for the reception of state guests, the main building, a cross between Versailles and Buckingham Palace, is a stunning commentary on the Japanese knack for copying things Western, down to the last toilet and bidet.

The Japanese pavilion, which stands unobtrusively behind it, is, on the other hand, a monument to the Japanese architectural genius for airy simplicity and oneness with nature.

Visiting presidents, kings and prime ministers will experience a bit of both, living in the two-story palace, with its 300 rooms, hosting dinners at a table set for 50, and tasting the joys of Japanese cuisine and the tea ceremony in the pavilion.

Shortly before its recent official opening it was visited by Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako in something of a journey into nostalgia. They were the first occupants of the palace, built for them as crown prince and crown princess in 1909.

The original building took 10 years to finish, used up 3,000 tons of imported marble and steel, and cost the staggering equivalent in today's money of $180 million.

The Imperial Family soon found it drafty, ruinous to maintain and impossible to work in.

Over the years the building turned into a crumbling white elephant, used for a time as the Diet Library, the Impeachment Court and 10 years ago for the organizing committee of the Tokyo Olympics.

Eleven years ago, when Japan began to emerge from its international isolation, government leaders cast about for a suitable guest house for visiting heads of state and others coming to Tokyo, who had to be put up in hotels.

After five years of work, the remodeled palace and the new guest house are ready for occupancy at a cost officially disclosed as the equivalent of $39 million.

Few kings and not many prime ministers will be living in their accustomed style when they unpack their bags in the palace, with its miles of wine colored carpets, glittering reception rooms, paneled library and opulent Egyptian smoking room.

From their arrival at the imposing main entrance, with its courtyard of 230,000 granite flagstones, it will be a journey — modern comforts added — into the neo-baroque era of Europe.

Bowed in by a specially hired hotel staff of 70, the guests will climb an imposing marble and gold gilt stairway, past nine-branched electric candelabra, into the "Salon of the Rising Sun," named for the ceiling painting of the Goddess of the Sun in her chariot, done by a Japanese painter in the late 19th century.

From the high French windows, the guests look out on an immense and beautiful French fountain and a landscaped Japanese garden.

The ballroom, or "Room of Heavenly Veils," has a gallery for musicians, Meiji period cherry wood furniture, and copies of French period chairs.

The guest bedrooms, some with twin beds, others with double, do not lack, as the original building did, toilets. They are modern, more than 50 in number, have a telephone in each one and that peculiarly French sanitary invention, the bidet.

One of the things that shot up the cost of the palace remodeling was inflation plus the thickness of the walls, massive things which occupy fully a third of the entire floor space. They kept the palace intact in the 1923 earthquake but made installation of electric circuitry and plumbing an expensive adventure.

After the grandeur and fussiness of the baroque palace, the Japanese pavilion is a gem of breathtaking austerity, of that deceptive quality the Japanese call "shibui." In it, richness is mingled with elegant diffidence, from the natural unpainted woods of the ceilings, walls and floors to the fresh-smelling straw tatami of the dining room.

Long, low and looking out on a pool of water and undulating artificial hills, the pavilion will be Japan's best advertisement for a way of life long admired but slowly passing.

The TOURIST—Model ES425 19" diagonal picture

Slim, trim RCA XL-100 Color portable!

- RCA's famous Argosy model . . . only 15⅜" of cabinet depth! That's 19% slimmer than comparable sets with conventional 19" diagonal picture tubes! Attractive in appearance.
- RCA's wide-angle AccuColor® picture tube for lifelike color reproduction.
- AccuMatic IV brings color, tint, brightness and contrast within a normal, pre-set range at the touch of a button.
- Automatic Fine Tuning electronically pinpoints and accurately holds the correct picture signal on each channel.
- RCA XL-100, 100% solid state chassis features the most advanced type of circuitry used in TV today.
- Simplified servicing. Twelve plug-in AccuCircuit® modules control most set functions, can be easily replaced.
- Five computer-tested integrated circuits replace many heat-producing parts.

GRANTMASTER RADIAL TIRE GUARANTEE

1. 40,000 MILE GUARANTEE—Every new Grant radial tire is guaranteed by the W. T. Grant Company to give its purchaser 40,000 miles of tread wear if used on the vehicle on which it was originally installed, in normal highway non commercial service. If the tread wears down to the 2/32nds" tread depth indicator before delivering 40,000 miles of tread wear, any participating W. T. Grant Store throughout the United States will replace the tire with an equivalent new tire on a pro rata mileage basis, charging the purchaser only for the mileage actually received.

Proper tire care is necessary to obtain maximum mileage from your radial tires. Your mileage guarantee is contingent upon taking your tires into a Grant store for free inspection and possible rotation every 5,000 miles and the proper completion of your mileage record by the adjusting store in case of a claim under this guarantee.

2. Tread Life Guarantee Against Road Hazards
We guarantee all Grantmaster tires against failures from all normal road hazards for the life of the tread with the exception of: ordinary nail punctures, fire, theft, front-end mis-alignment, under-inflation, over-inflation and running flat.

3. Tread Life Guarantee Against Defects
We guarantee the Grantmaster tires, against all defects of material and workmanship, for the life of the tread.

Basis of Adjustment: Should your Grantmaster tire require adjustment under Section 1 or 2 of the Guarantee, please return it to Grants and we will replace it by giving you a proportionate allowance for the unused tread, based on the current selling price, including Federal Excise Tax.

This guarantee covers tires in passenger car service only. Passenger car tires used in commercial service reduce the guarantee period by 50%.
